

Best in American Living Award

Presented to:

Röhe & Wright Builders

For Outstanding Home Design

Houston, February 19, 2007— In recognition of the nation's best new housing designs, the Best in American Living Award (BALA) awards were presented on Tuesday, February 6, 2007 at an award ceremony in conjunction with the National Association of Home Builders' annual convention and exposition in Orlando. Röhe & Wright Builders received three BALA awards for Best Master Bath, Best Attached Urban, Infill, and Best Kitchen.

Sponsored by Professional Builder magazine and the National Association of Home Builders, the BALA program showcases homes that illustrate design quality, succeed in the market place and exemplify the "Best in American Living." To qualify, homes must have been completed or communities opened between May 1, 2005 and July 15, 2006.

A total of 106 award winners in 41 categories were chosen from more than 559 entries. The 2006 BALA competition's panel of 12 judges was composed of builders, marketing experts, architects, land planners, developers, design professionals, interior designers and Professional Builder editor.

Winners were featured in our February issue of Professional Builder Magazine. For more information on the 2006 winners, visit www.probuilder.com/BALA.
